

ABSTRACT

A mold open and close mechanism for an I.S. machine is provided which separates the drive
5 including the motor and the housing. The drive portion is releasably connected to the housing so that the drive can be easily removed for repair or replacement.